November 1-5

Hello Parents,

I hope you enjoyed a lovely Halloween with your cute little ones! Please limit lunchtime candy to one tiny treat, and none for snack.

Today we find ourselves in the month of November. We will be doing many special Thanksgiving projects which will be sent home the week before conferences.

Our Star of the Week is Nicky!

Reminders:

If you have not turned in your signed report card envelope, please do so now.
There will be no school on Thursday, November 11th, Veterans Day.

Important: The courtyard in front of Seattle Lutheran is not Holy Rosary property. Please do not put their school in a position of liability by allowing your children to climb and jump on tables and benches. I would also prefer that you avoid letting them climb on the steep hill below the fence, (outside of the kindergarten doors) as that is also their property. I actually slipped and cracked my elbow on the incline a few years back. They are wonderful and patient neighbors so we must reciprocate!

Curriculum:

Language Arts: This week we are talking about animal movement. Our new words are a at am. The phonograph sounds : ai (as in paint) and ay (as in day).

Math: We have begun a new chapter in our Math book titled "Numbers beyond 10"

Religion: This entire month we will focus on gratitude. Our lesson this week is titled "Welcome to God's Family" We will learn about the baptism of Jesus.

Second Step: Our new lesson is "Sometimes we Feel Mad"

Mystery Science: "Circle of Seasons...How do we know what to wear for the weather?"

Have a great week!
